

Searching for Jobs from a Federal Government Website

Posted in: Vocational

Below is a link to a federal government web-site which contains substantial information on the employment opportunities, specific vocational services and programs, training and educational options, as well as legal issues in the vocational area relevant for Aboriginal persons, immigrants, persons with disabilities and youth. The web-site provides materials for career exploration and tools for career management, including career quizzes, resume builder, career planner, and career navigator. Users can also identify their training opportunities and discover rights and benefits of workers in specific occupations. Among other features is access to employment standards and to labour market information.

For the service Canada Federal Government website

<http://www.servicecanada.gc.ca/eng/lifeevents/job.shtml>

For the direct link to the job bank which is within the Service Canada website

<http://www.jobbank.gc.ca/Intro-eng.aspx>